

CE/UKCA Marking Policy

JOS Structures Ltd does not manufacture any products that require CE or UKCA marking. We do however use construction materials that are required to have either a CE or UKCA marking to evidence a conformity assessment.

Whilst the UK has introduced the UKCA marking to replace the CE marking, the government now intends to legislate to continue recognition of EU requirements, including the CE marking, indefinitely for a range of product regulations.

Currently there is some confusion when trying to understand the Construction Products Regulations as published guidance suggests construction product supplied to the GB market from 30th June 2025 must have UKCA marking. This guidance is still current at the time of this policy review.

We will generally identify CE/UKCA markings by either observing them directly on the materials themselves or on the packaging they are supplied in. Where we are not able to clearly identify the marking we will contact the manufacturer or distributor to establish that the material is conforming.
